Art Unit: 1652

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9, 14-16, drawn to a recombinant procollagen, a collagen composition, classified in class 530, subclass 356.
- II. Claims 10-12, 17, drawn to a nucleic acid, a vector, a cell and a process for making a procollagen using the cell, classified in class 536, subclass 23.5 and class 435, subclass 252.3 and 320.1.
- III. Claim 13, drawn to a recombinant collagen comprising a terminal decapeptide, classified in class 530, subclass 356.
- IV. Claim 18, drawn to a process for producing a collagen chain by proteolytic cleavage, classified in class 530, subclass 356.
- V. Claim 19, drawn to a method of promoting growth of cultured cells comprising contacting with a collagen composition, classified in class 435, subclass 243.
- VI. Claim 20, drawn to a method of augmenting localized tissue in a host comprising subcutaneously administering a collagen to a host, classified in class 514, subclass 2.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Groups (I and III) and II are drawn to completely different chemical compounds that are patentably distinct. In addition, Group II involves cloning whereas Groups (I and III) can read on the protein in nature and does not involve cloning.

Groups I and III are not related to one another because Group III has a component that Group I does not have.

Group IV is drawn to a process for making a collagen chain by proteolytic cleavage and it does not relate to any of the other groups.

Application/Control Number: 10/720,831

Art Unit: 1652

Inventions I and V are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process such as the method of Group VI.

Inventions and are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process such as the method of Group V.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Charles L. Patterson, Jr., PhD, whose telephone number is 571-272-0936. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday - Friday from 7:30 to 4:00.
